U.N. TRIES NEW EDUCATION TECHNIQUE—The expertise of previous efforts to teach the illiterates of such countries as India is being utilized by the United Nations. In the grim struggle for bare existence, children who learned to read and write soon forget their learning or develop no enthusiasm to pass their knowledge to others. In the U.N., while teaching the basic reading, writing and arithmetic relate all their teaching to the community development and to the problem of producing enough food to live. Here is a classroom in Haidwar, India, with a grayling, their parents are being instructed on hygiene, husbandry and agriculture.

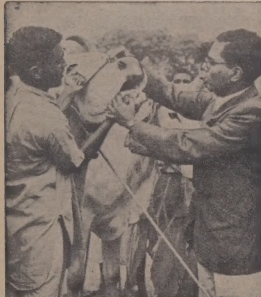

EX-KING FAROUK SAYS HE IS A "POOR MAN"—Here is the first photo to show former King Farouk of Egypt and his wife, and daughter all together on the terrace of their residence on the Isle of Capri, Italy. It is reported that the ex-monarch is seeking a bullet-proof house because he fears a fanatic might attempt to assassinate his seven-month-old son, King Pasha. In Cairo, meanwhile, the government chose a regency to rule for the baby. Farouk's tales of great wealth, says he is a "poor man".

A FULL-GROWN FALCON which left his lofty perch atop the Sun Life Building in Montreal to go on a hunting expedition among the birds in a lower part, found on one tail feather of a Montreal fire department. Promptly christened "Two Alarm" by firemen, the falcon swooped into the fire station for protection—possibly mistaking it for a police station. A fireman closed the doors as the bird flew in and spent uncomfortable moments ducking the feathered creature as the battle raged. The falcon crashed through a window opening in an upper window. Upon arrival of newsmen the falcon recovered from his crash landing. He took off as firemen and newsmen scattered for cover. The falcon made several sorties of the fire hall then landed for what he apparently thought was an open window. There was a shattering of glass as "Two Alarm" knocked himself out for the second time. The firemen gave the falcon "the bird" and turned him over to the S.P.C.A.

IN THE DAY'S WORK OF PIPELINE LAYING—One of the hazards in laying an oil pipeline is shown here. Workmen rigged a temporary bridge across the Trent river in building the line from Montreal to Hamilton and ran equipment on to the bridge to sink the line several feet under the bed of the river. The bridge collapsed and the riggers had to start all over again. The pipeline runs across southern Ontario and will carry western oil.—Central Press Canadian.

It needs no university training for India's farmers to see the advantage of education when it means a cure for cattle disease and therefore an escape from hunger. To make schooling a thing of meaning to the poverty-stricken villagers, the principal of Janki college, India, shows where his knowledge can benefit them; he inspects a bullock's mouth for signs of disease, tells the farmers how to diagnose and cure the disease.

POUCH FINDS PUSY WAS A PORCUPINE—Rex a Boston terrier puppy, shows the royal reception he received after snuggling at a porcupine in the woods near his home at Quebec, Massachusetts, possibly in the mistaken belief that he was after a cat. Veterinarian Edward A. Blake removed over 2,000 quills from the pup's head and back his mouth while Rex was under anesthesia. With eyes still puffy Rex is pictured after being de-quilled, (right), snuggled and—no hope—ripped.

RIVAL UNIONS BATTLE FOR SUPREMACY—Workers of the CIO and AFL are shown during a pitched battle at the Alle-Chemura plant gate in Terre Haute, Indiana. The fight began when about 75 CIO workers tried to prevent 200 AFL workers from entering the plant, which had been strike-bound since May 7. The battle broke out when the first of several workers cars tried to cross the line into the plant. Several men were slashed and severely beaten during the fierce fight.

U.S. MAY BUY BRITAIN'S "ROCKET WITH BRAINS"—A British guided rocket motor, mounted after being launched. The initial boost motors are attached to the rear and fall off after the missile has reached its cruising speed. The British defense ministry has announced "progress" in joint missile development, and the U.S. is considering purchasing this supermini, pilotless "brain" to add to their arsenal.

EVITA'S SHIRT LIVES ON—A nurse of the Eva Peron Foundation shows her oath of loyalty as she passes the hair of Argentina's first lady in Buenos Aires. In the background are a number of other mourners. A huge monument is planned in her honor.—Central Press Canadian.

MEXICO CITY COULD USE VENICE GONDOLAS—It's "standing room only" on this craft on one of Mexico City's main thoroughfares, as stranded workers take the only available transportation in their job after heavy rains turned the boulevard into a lake. Millions of dollars in property damage and trade loss were reported after four days and nights of heavy rains.—Central Press Canadian.

DUKES AND DUCHESSES ON HOLIDAY—In mood and in attire, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor look the part of happy tourists on a holiday in Italy. They are shown strolling along one of Rapallo's streets.

FIRE VEHICLES COLLIDE IN LONDON—(ANT)—After crashing into the car of the fire chief, the pumping truck of the London, Ont. Fire Department ran on its side at a London intersection. Both vehicles were swerving a fire alarm and were losing no time getting to the scene of the fire. Four firemen and the fire chief were injured. One was pinned under the heavy truck and suffered a crushed chest.

PHOTO OF THE ELUSIVE FLYING SAUCER—This photo was made by a U.S. coast guard cameraman at Salem, Mass. and shows what passes as a flying saucer in the minds of most people who saw them. The photo has been examined and re-examined by officials who offer no explanation as to what they saw. At the time radar instruments showed moving objects in the sky. Physicists still maintain the saucers are non-material and give to light refraction.—Central Press Canadian.

GEORGE MEDAL WINNER IN MONTREAL HOSPITAL—Col. J. E. Stewart, of Saint John, N.B., who has just been awarded the George Medal for conspicuous action beyond the call of duty in Korea, is recovering from his injuries in Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital in Montreal. Late last week Stewart was helped to his feet for the first time since receiving severe spinal injuries in Korea and commented "It's just good to stand on your own two feet." to Nurse M. Ferguson, now in attendance.

The value of having a high ranking British officer on General Clark's staff is that it should give much easier for the commanding general in Korea to learn what responsible British opinion is thinking and what the reaction in the Commonwealth is to a whole is likely to be toward some military stroke he might be planning.

The British Labor Party, through Mr. Shinwell, its former Defence Minister, challenged this new arrangement in the House of Commons as being adequate.

Mr. Nigel Birch, parliamentary assistant to Lord Alexander, stoutly contested this view.

Although the Canadian House of Commons has not had the chance to discuss this matter, there appears little doubt that Mr. Caxton and Mr. Pearson, the two Ministers primarily concerned, will take the first opportunity to range the government behind the position as stated by Lord Alexander.

Joe Berardo Hunting Single Bulls

General Joe Berardo, who claims that he can handle any single bull, announced this morning that the prize money for the Drumheller Male Voice Choir will be held by him.

Another of the signs of changing weather is the fact that the merchant today with a few extra dollars to spare is turning to all stocks and leases while his counterpart in the city is turning to all stocks and leases.

Both areas will produce some and farmers but it is a certainty that the fall of a quarter of century ago, waiting for the price of grain or beef to advance, received a greater thrill and feeling of accomplishment in stock and grain trading.

Vickers Laid St. Thomas Pioneer Businessman

The most pleasant recollection of St. Thomas for many months was a recent report of the St. Thomas Times-Journal, describing the centennial of the district, which includes a feature written on the first emigrant, George A. Murray, pioneer business.

Mr. Murray, who has been in St. Thomas for over 70 years is one of the area most brilliant business men. Through the years he has missed few games of the baseball diamond or the local prize diamonds and his.
